Communication at your leisure

Brentwood Communications provides multi-site radio coverage for a UK leading holiday park.

When Park Resorts on the Isle of Wight required two way radio reception across two sites they approached Brentwood Communications to help them with their requirements. Landguard and Lower Hyde, based in Shanklin on the Isle of Wight, required multi-site radio communication across both sites.

They needed reliable and robust radio technology with 100% up time. Due to the distance between the two sites a simple back to back solution did not achieve adequate coverage and a more sophisticated solution was needed. Their specification was simple. Radio coverage across the two sites, with robust and easy to use radios.

Environment: Mainly outside & large area coverage

Noise Levels: Medium

Users: 30 plus

Solution overview

A full site survey was needed to establish what coverage was achievable and to ensure the client could communicate at all locations on the two sites.

Due to the large area the need for a repeater (booster) station was imperative to achieve multi-site coverage at the furthest points.

After consultation with the client the location of the antenna and repeater was identified. We provided simple and very robust Motorola technology. Tried and tested for many years the Motorola GP344 and Motorola CP040 portable radios were chosen for their long battery life and great audio quality. Each radio came with a high capacity battery, belt clip and charger. We also managed the frequency specification on behalf of the client.
